

Sankofa Summer

Sankofa means go back and get it among the Akan people in Ghana. They believe that if you study your history, you can use those lessons to guide you toward success in the future. We hope you've had an opportunity to do just that over the summer. Whether some of the skills you've gained range from learning new yoga moves to being better at networking, you should consider carrying them over into the fall.

School begins as early as next week for some K-12 districts.

Toward that end, there are a number of ways to prepare for your senior year in high school. Have you identified the colleges you're interested in? Do you know what you want to major in? Are you eligible for any scholarships? Huduma Services can help.

Many colleges and universities don't start for another two to three weeks. In the meantime, if you're a college senior, you have another set of concerns. Have you looked into graduate school? Can you get glowing letters of recommendation from your professors? Is your GPA high enough to be eligible for a research or teaching assistantship? Huduma Services can help.
